Chapter 3 The Enhanced E-R Model

Chapter Overview

The purpose of this chapter is to present some important extensions to the E-R model (described in Chapter 2) that are useful in capturing additional business meaning. In particular, we describe two types of extensions to the E-R model. First, the enhanced entity-relationship (EER) model includes constructs for supertype/subtype relationships. Second, the inclusion of new notation for business rules allows the designer to capture a broader range of constraints on the data model than were previously available.

Chapter Objectives

Specific student objectives are included in the beginning of the chapter. From an instructor's point of view, the objectives of this chapter are to:

1. Introduce the concept of supertype/subtype relationships, and prepare the students to recognize when to use these relationships in data modeling.
2. Describe the use of specialization (top-down perspective) and generalization (bottom-up perspective) as complementary techniques for defining supertype/subtype relationships.
3. Introduce a notation for specifying both completeness constraints and disjointness constraints when modeling supertype/subtype relationships.
4. Help students gain sufficient perspective so that they recognize when to use (and when not to use) supertype/subtype relationships in realistic business situations.
5. Describe the basic premises of a business rules paradigm.
6. Discuss the concept of a universal data model and its use in packaged data models.

Key Terms
