Download the Free Printable Easter Worksheets Maria Montessori understood the great importance of developing skills and intellectual stimulation in the first years of life. Between 0-6, children have an unlimited capacity to absorb the world around them. From their environment, they learn the good and the bad. Thus, they need accompaniment in this process, not because they cannot strengthen their intelligence by themselves, but because they need someone to help them channel and organize all the knowledge they are acquiring. However, it is essential to bear in mind that the adult should not introduce his/her knowledge into the child's mind. That must be given through his/her own experience and not through another person's perception. That will allow children to reason for themselves; the adult must motivate them to explore and satisfy their desire to discover and learn new things by their effort. Each child has their own time to develop their learning, and this must be respected. Maria Montessori classified the stages in planes of development. From 3 to 6 years old, the absorbing mind carries out activities related to strengthening the skills necessary for day to day, including mathematics, language, practical and sensory life. The reasoning mind, this plane is from 6 to 12 years old. At this stage, children already understand abstract concepts, and knowledge is integrated. Specific studies are carried out in five areas: development of the universe and the earth, the evolution of life, human beings' development, communication by signs, and numbers. The humanistic mind is eager to understand humanity and what it can do for it. And finally, there is the specialist mind taking its place in the world. THEME: EASY SCIENCE ACTIVITIES FOR KIDS HOW DO WE DO THIS ACTIVITY? Topic: Biology, the rabbit body parts Age: 4-6-year-old children Goal: Through this easy science activity for kids, children will recognize and match the rabbit's body parts with their respective names. Difficulty level: Advanced. This easy science activity for kids is designed for children to do independently and autonomously in the company of an adult. Skills: Precision in hand and finger movementsHand-eye coordinationRecognizing the body partsRecognizing the wordsAutonomySelf-relianceTrustSelf-esteem MATERIALS Cards of the drawing of a rabbit. Each card will have a specific body part colored and its name at the bottom. All the cards must have their respective pair, with the difference that these will have the name on a separate piece of paper.A containerA tray ACTIVITY DEVELOPMENT Step 1: Put the chips with the names on a flat surface. Step 2: Place each pair in front of each chip and search for the name. ACTIVITY'S RESULT Matching pairs of the rabbit body parts. Easy easy science activities for kids. HOW TO CARRY OUT THIS EASY SCIENCE ACTIVITY FOR KIDS WITH CHILDREN OF OTHER AGES? CHANGES FOR CHILDREN UNDER 4 You can do this easy science activity for kids with younger children. To reduce the difficulty level, children can put together a full-body rabbit puzzle, using an image to get an idea of arranging the tiles. The adult can help them reinforce the name of each of the parts of the body. In this way, children will carry out a preschool activity appropriate to their development and abilities. CHANGES FOR CHILDREN OLDER THAN 6 You can do this easy science activity for kids with older children. To increase the level of difficulty, children will complete the rabbit's body with the material they want; finally, they will name it. In this way, children will carry out an easter activity appropriate to their development and abilities. VIDEO DESCRIPTION - EASY SCIENCE ACTIVITY FOR KIDS: A RABBIT BODY PARTS In this easy science activity for kids video, you will find detailed information about the "A RABBIT BODY PARTS" activity, designed for children 4 to 6 years old. Here they will carry out a biology activity to recognize the body of a rabbit. This easy science activity for kids will allow children to develop precision in hand and finger movements, hand-eye coordination, body part recognition, word recognition, autonomy, self-reliance, trust, and self-esteem. The materials needed are pieces with a rabbit drawing, a container, and a tray. Do you like our Easter easy science activities for kids? Make sure to check out our other Easter activities. Whether you use Montessori education or a more traditional form of teaching or homeschooling, free printables are invaluable. Along with saving you money, they can save time and help you easily create attractive, professional-looking activities. Creating Montessori-Inspired Activity Trays I already have a post with free Montessori materials online with links to many fantastic Montessori printables. Montessori printables are generally created for hand-on learning. Montessori activities are arranged attractively in baskets or trays on low shelves where preschoolers can easily choose their own activities. Other printables can generally be made into Montessori-inspired activity trays with hands-on learning, too. Often small objects can be added to the activity or you can think of how the activity can be made reusable. Many times, the pieces can be cut apart and laminated. Remember, the younger your child is, the more important hands-on learning is. Thank you to the bloggers who so generously share their free printables. There are so many great sites offering free printables. Here are some sites with lovely printables that can often be made into hands-on activity trays (listed in alphabetical order according to my computer). Note: Even though this post is for free preschool printables, often they're appropriate for toddlers or preschoolers through first or second grade. Note: I'm hoping to have a thorough list of sites that publish free printables. If you publish them, I plan to add your site to this list or my free Montessori materials list. Please contact me if I missed your site. Sites with Free Preschool Printables That Work Well for Activity Trays Typically, these sites have printables for sale along with free printables. I'm just focusing on the free printables here, though. Most of the sites have some subscriber freebies as well, even the ones that have a large number of instant downloads. I'll try to specify if the sites have mainly instant downloads or subscriber freebies, though. Sometimes that changes, so I can't guarantee these will remain accurate. 123 Homeschool 4 Me – instant downloads 3 Boys and a Dog – instant downloads 3 Dinosaurs – instant downloads A Little Pinch of
